Abstract: It is very necessary and of great practical significance for higher vocational colleges to construct the educational pattern of "great ideology and politics" under the background of "educating people with three abilities". At present, there are problems in the construction of education pattern of "great ideology and politics" in higher vocational colleges. Taking Bozhou Vocational and Technical College as an example, this paper puts forward some countermeasures and suggestions for the construction of education pattern of "great ideology and politics" from several aspects, such as curriculum ideology and politics, daily ideology and politics, network ideology and politics, and cultural ideology and politics.

1. Introduction

It is the direction of vocational education reform to construct the education system of "ideological and political education" under the background of "three complete education". "Big ideological and political" means that ideological and political education work should run through the learning process of all courses, throughout all links and levels of school life, all the staff should consciously shoulder the responsibility of ideological and political education, improve the effectiveness of ideological and political education work, create a strong education atmosphere^[1].

2. The significance of constructing "great ideological and political" education pattern in colleges and universities

The research group believes that it is very necessary and of great significance for colleges and universities, especially higher vocational colleges, to construct a large ideological and political education pattern under the background of "educating people with all three abilities".

2.1 To build a large ideological and political education pattern is an inevitable requirement for carrying out the purpose of running colleges and universities

In the process of the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation, young college students are the witnesses and participants of this historical process, and the main force for the prosperity of the socialist cause from generation to generation. The contents, ways and methods of college education should revolve around this purpose. All majors, disciplines, faculty and staff, campus culture, etc., should highlight the distinct orientation of education. Although the emphasis of all elements is different, they should all form a joint force under the common goal to form a "ideological and political education pattern"^[2].

2.2 To build a large ideological and political education pattern is the inevitable choice to solve the problem in our university's ideological and political education work

The world today is undergoing profound changes unseen in a century. A variety of thoughts are stirring in China, impacting the minds of young people and influencing the formation of their scientific world outlook, outlook on life and values. Due to the different division of labor in colleges and universities, functional departments and teaching departments play their respective roles, and there is no joint force yet. The connection between ideological and political teachers and professional teachers is not close enough. It takes some time for ideological and political courses to be integrated with professional courses, and the goal of working in the same direction has not been achieved.

2.3 To construct a pattern of ideological and political education is an essential part of the healthy growth of young college students.

Young college students are in an important period of growing body and knowledge, with rapid development of body and mind, rich and changeable thoughts and feelings. They are in a mature but not fully mature stage, and are vulnerable to the impact and influence of various ideological trends. In the era of Internet, there is a huge amount of information and the mud is all around. College students are the natives of the Internet, and the thoughts and opinions of the Internet can easily dominate the students' thoughts and ideologies, and even lead them astray in life.

3. Analysis on current situation and problems of "Ideological and political education" in higher vocational colleges

In order to fully understand the overall situation of ideological and political education and teaching of college students in higher vocational colleges under the background of education for all three students, our research group took Bozhou Vocational and Technical College as an example, designed and distributed questionnaires to relevant staff of the school.

The survey shows that the interviewees basically understand, agree with and approve of the educational guiding ideology of "three full education", and have a clear understanding of the necessity of "big ideological and political" education pattern in colleges and universities. They believe that higher vocational colleges should form a consensus as soon as possible, condense into a joint force, jointly manage and form a joint education pattern, so as to better fulfill the fundamental task of moral education in colleges and universities. Through investigation and research, we also found that there are some unavoidable problems in ideological and political education in higher vocational colleges under the background of "three education"

3.1 Ideological and political theory classes in colleges and universities are not combined with the second class of activities.

After investigating the situation of Bozhou Vocational and Technical College and other surrounding colleges, the research team found that the teaching department and the publicity department, the Youth League Committee and other departments are not affiliated with each other, so there is a phenomenon of "two layers of separation" in practical work.

3.2 Ideological and political courses and other courses have not yet formed a common peer, collaborative education.

At present, in order to give full play to the educational role of ideological and political education, our school has set up a number of ideological and political construction projects. However, in general, the number of ideological and political construction projects is not large, with only more than 10 projects per year, which accounts for a small proportion in basic courses and specialized courses.

3.3 The synergy between ideological and political education team is insufficient.

At present, there are two teams responsible for the education and management of college students, namely, the teachers of ideological and political theory courses and the counselors (class teachers) and other student work teams. Due to the influence of various objective factors, a large number of personnel engaged in ideological and political education management are not from ideological and political majors. They lack due attention to and research on the ideological status of college students, and focus their ideological and political education work mainly on students^[3].

3.4 The role of network education and culture education is not fully played

For the contemporary college students, the Internet in the current college students for a long time, the network views have a great impact on the students, the network has become the source of young students' ideas, opinions, life communication important platform, put forward a new challenge to the ideological and political education of students.

4. The countermeasures and suggestions of constructing the pattern of "Big ideology and politics" in higher vocational colleges

The research group believes that in order to solve the problems in today's ideological and political education, colleges and universities must strengthen the top-level design in the macro level, overall planning, strategic planning, and at the same time in an effective way to integrate various forces, coordinate various elements, to form a strong education force.

4.1 Ideological and political curriculum and curriculum ideological and political parallel, the construction of curriculum ideological and political education system.

By constructing and reforming the curriculum system composed of ideological and political courses and specialized courses, the main channel role of curriculum in ideological and political education should be effectively brought into play. First, promote the ideological and political theory course teaching reform. Students are the starting point of education, and the starting point of curriculum reform is to study the characteristics of students, accurately grasp the ideological status of students and the law of growth, and solve the problem of affinity and pertinence of teaching. To explore the convergence of ideological and political courses and professional courses in some theoretical aspects of knowledge, and promote classroom teaching to shift to thematic teaching. Second, a number of ideological and political demonstration classes covering a wide range of courses should be built. Take Bozhou Vocational and Technical College as an example. Besides the compulsory ideological and political courses, the school offers innovation and entrepreneurship education, mental health education and other courses, which cover all students and can also serve as an important front of ideological and political courses. Ideological and political teaching competitions will be held every academic year to form regular competitions and encourage professional teachers to consciously integrate professional courses with ideological and political courses.

4.2 Play the role of education activities, tamp extracurricular main position.

When carrying out the activities of the second classroom, higher vocational colleges should take the students' growth as the purpose, focus on the students' demand orientation and value orientation, combine with the students' professional interests, and guide the students by the advantage, run the ideological and political education through all the links of the second classroom, and carry out the fundamental task of cultivating virtues and cultivating souls. School student office and the Youth League committee, the student union, the social federation and other student work departments, in some commemorative festivals such as the National Day, May fourth Youth Day, Anti-Japanese War victory Day and so on, in the form of painting and calligraphy, red songs, photography, facing all students to carry out "patriotism, youth, responsibility" and other themes of the situation policy education.

4.3 We will focus on Internet thinking and government, and strengthen the construction of Internet plus thinking and government.

"We should solve the problem of 'panic of ability' and become a real expert in using new means and methods of modern media." Vocational colleges should strengthen the construction of "two micro and one end" and campus websites, build the campus network of Bozhou Vocational and Technical College, the public account of Bozhou Vocational and Technical College, video and other new media centers, strengthen online positive publicity, gather all teachers and students, develop positive campus network culture, and form strong online positive public opinion.

In 2021-2022, more than 80 news stories, touching stories and students' appearance have been reproduced and quoted by Xinhua News Agency, Learning Power, Anhui Education Network, Bozhou Evening News and other media, generating a good response. The hits and page views of the campus website and the official account have reached a new high, and the popularity among teachers and students has been increasing. It has become the main channel for teachers and students to understand national policies and pay attention to campus dynamics.

4.4 Give full play to the role of culture, ideology and politics, and create a nurturing environment.

To create an environment of cultural fools in higher vocational colleges, we can start from the following points: First, inherit the red culture and promote the sense of responsibility that young college students aspire to take for the great rejuvenation of the nation. Bozhou Vocational and Technical College carries out a number of activities such as "Qingming Festival for Heroes", National Day, Victory Day of the Anti-Japanese War, May Fourth Red Song competition, etc., to promote the revolutionary spirit, inherit the red gene, and guide students to enhance patriotism. The second is to create a campus characteristic culture with the concept of "great power craftsman", invite local business celebrities or industry elites to give lectures on campus, outstanding graduates' report, excellent entrepreneurs' forum, etc., advocate students to pursue both moral and technical excellence as their career goal, and stimulate the endogenous power of self-growth and talent of students; Guide students to learn from role models, have the courage to innovate and start businesses, and shape the life character of outstanding responsibility.

5. Conclusions

As the ancients said: Education is the foundation of the country. We will deepen education in patriotism, collectivism and socialism, and strive to train new people who will take on the great responsibilities of national rejuvenation." We will encourage young people to become great talents and shoulder great responsibilities for national rejuvenation, and lay a solid ideological foundation for realizing the "Chinese Dream" of national rejuvenation.
