At the same time, every practical innovation is a concrete embodiment of the sinicization of Marxism, and also an important part of the CPC's culture of resisting Japan and saving the country - the outstanding cultural achievements created by the patriotic revolutionary martyrs between mountains and rivers. The red cultural resources include the excellent revolutionary spirit and revolutionary culture accumulated by the Chinese Communists in the practical battle, and are also the favorable support for College Teachers' Ideological and political courses. Under the guidance of Marxist practical theory, the Communist of China (CPC) produced the red cultural resources of the Northeast Anti-Japanese Alliance, which is a new and advanced cultural form created by the Chinese modern revolution, including high-quality material resources, strong and good revolutionary spirit, standardized system and perfect style of work. The red cultural resources of the Northeast Anti-Japanese Federation can provide rich ideological materials and material supplies for the building work in Colleges and universities. At present, with the in-depth development of building in Colleges and universities, the efficient utilization of Culture resources has been fully improved and achieved certain results. For example, the integration of Culture in various forms and categories, teachers and students can no longer only stay in books, but also be integrated into the lives of teachers and students through stage plays, art performances, venue observation, visits, practical training and other forms. However, with the rapid development of the Culture of the Northeast Anti-Japanese Alliance, it also reflects some shortcomings. For example, the ideological understanding of teachers and students needs to be improved, the content integration is rigid, and the carrier form is relatively single. [2]The root causes are mainly due to the insufficient attention of the main body, the large negative obstacles from the social aspect, and the weak supervision of the national and provincial management departments. The red cultural resources of the Northeast Anti-Japanese Federation are the favorable evidence of China's resistance to foreign aggression and hostile forces, and also the spiritual wealth that cannot be forgotten in China. It contains rich historical connotations derived from practice, which is worth more experience and understanding of college students in the new era. Strengthening high-quality building and educating people, reshaping the spiritual fortress of college students, and increasing the sense of responsibility and mission of teachers and students are the theme of contemporary university education.
